

CARTER AIDES SAID MOVING TO DUMP TURNER AS CIA CHIEF

United Press International

Members of the White House staff are attempting to ease Stanfield Turner out of his post as CIA director, the Detroit News reported today.

The paper said the effort was being led by national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, with the tacit support of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

The report said President Carter, an Annapolis classmate of Turner's, is seeking a face-saving way to remove Turner from control of the intelligence agency without having to fire him.

The move against Turner reportedly stemmed from dissatisfaction with the way he has run the CIA.

let it go. Why get involved and get in trouble?"

Less than 24 hours following the meeting between Kelly and the community leaders, an 18-year-old burglary suspect, Abraham Dickens IV, was fatally shot as he climbed out of a rear window of the Palmer Restaurant in Landover. The officer involved in that shooting, Lester J. Bethel, has been placed on routine administrative leave pending a police investigation of the incident.

On Saturday afternoon, Kelly called Rhoads and his staff for a meeting.

Rhoads said yesterday that a general review of the department's general orders on firearms had been underway since October, "but the process was greatly accelerated because of my meeting with Mr. Kelly and my own personal feelings and fears of what might happen."

Rhoads said there would be a "total revamping of the firearms policy — additions and deletions. We want everyone in this department who carries a weapon to know what we want."

Asked if he thought the looseness of the current order in some way might have been responsible for the shooting of William Ray, Rhoads replied, "I don't know. But if it did, then that's all the more reason to do this."

Laney Hester, the president of the county Fraternal Order of Police, claimed that the new regulations reflect political concerns. "It's election year," he said, "and Winfield Kelly doesn't want to alienate voters. I think this is designed to appease a vocal minority. It's a response to pressure from the community."

BUT RHOADS POINTED out that the current gun use regulation "is five and a half pages of small type." The new regulation — specifics of which have not been worked out — is expected to be written and promulgated by next weekend.

"We understand a police officer has a few seconds to make these decisions," Rhoads said in an interview, "and we want them to remember (the concept of clear and present danger) all the time. You have to. This is the most important order. It deals with deadly force."

Rhoads added, "We don't want to get to a point where we're locking those holsters because there'll come a day — we always hope not — but there'll come a day when an officer will have to take a life."

By late yesterday afternoon a message from Rhoads about the impending change in the firearms regulation was being read at rollcalls in each precinct in the county.

In part, Rhoads' statement said: "This more restrictive general order is being imposed because it is imperative that no one be needlessly slain or injured by a Prince George's County police officer. All officers may be assured, however, that the order will be drafted in such a way that their lives and the lives of others will not be exposed to further jeopardy."

y increased expenditures or tax cuts.

Carter claimed that zero-base budgeting — a system requiring justification of all spending and the ranking of priorities — improved decision-making and saved money in the new budget. Budget Director James T. McIntyre Jr. was not able to provide specific estimates of the claimed savings, but said he soon will issue a report on examples of ZBB accomplishments.

EVEN THE HUGE official figures tell only part of the budget story. To escape tight control, Congress has cut some programs outside the budget. These "off-budget" programs will spend $11.5 billion in 1978 and $2.5 billion in 1979, the budget said.

Thus, true outlays total $473.7 billion in 1978 and $512.7 billion in 1979, increasing the deficit to $73.4 billion in 1978 and $73.1 billion in 1979. Ford reported off-budget expenditures prominently in his last budget, but Carter buried the figures.
